

Overview of LEGIC[®] Licence Types

Many good reasons to become a LEGIC licence partner!

LEGIC's contactless smart card platform is a unique system in terms of its security features, Master-Token System Control and design. In addition, LEGIC provides comprehensive training, documentation, support, a Hotline service and marketing support to its partners. Most services are included in the Licence fee structure.

Please find a detailed listing of the benefits and entitlements for each of the various Licence types on the following pages.

Overview of LEGIC[®] Licence Types

A-Licence

Reader Products

The first type of the A-Licence is levelled at manufacturers of readers for various applications. The Licence serves as an authorisation to purchase the needed LEGIC components to develop and manufacture readers, terminals etc. The Licence gives access to detailed product documentation, support, training and more.

Transponder Chips

The second type of the A-Licence is levelled at credential manufacturers who will integrate the LEGIC chip in their inlets. These manufacturers may then either manufacture ISO-sized chip cards or credentials such as key fobs, watches, or sell their inlays to third party manufacturers. The Licence authorises a Licence partner to buy LEGIC transponder chips in the form of wafers or MCC2 modules. For further benefits and entitlements please refer to the table below.

Annual LEGIC® partner seminar

For authorised partners participation at LEGIC's annual partner seminar is free of charge. The seminar is the ideal platform to receive detailed information on:

- LEGIC and its latest strategy
- Product developments
- Market conditions, trends and activities
- Marketing partnerships

In addition, the agenda also includes:

- Workshops covering pertinent topics including opportunities to contribute ideas to the development of future products
- LEGIC partner presentations (products, services)
- Social activities including opening dinner and fun activities for half a day, providing an informal setting for networking amongst seminar participants.

Past seminars have been highly regarded by the participants. LEGIC continuously strives to adjust the seminar's agenda to suit our Licence partners' information needs by conducting surveys and from feedback at workshops and open discussions at the seminar.
